User-Story 2:

As a logged in user, I want to be able to look at the cheapest prices in one place in order to not have to open multiple websites. When searching for ticket prices, it feels like such a hassle to look across multiple tabs, back and forth, and look at multiple ticket providers just to find the best seat within my budget. Having a ticket hub-like website that displays all the ticket results from each resale website would make things much more convenient for the user and their ticket buying experience. Then, once I finally settle on the ticket I want, I can click the ticket and be redirected to the ticket-resale website(i.e. TicketMaster, Stubhub, Seatgeek) to complete the purchase.